THE RIED REPORT

The purpose of the RIED Report is to promote economic growth through the evaluation of business, job and economic growth issues considered by the Oklahoma Legislature.

RIED creates a profile of each legislator's individual voting record for bills dealing with business, industry, job creation, and economic growth issues deemed important by the private sector. All legislation introduced during the session regarding the issues listed is evaluated.

A private sector focus group comprised of representatives in the fields related to the proposed legislation follows each bill through the process and issues a final recommendation. The group evaluates the bills being considered and approves the bills for final scoring.

Each legislator is graded with respect to his or her vote on each bill. Absences are not counted against the final score. Absences during half the voting for scored bills may result in no score for the session. Reports are disseminated across the state based upon each legislator's voting record.

As an initiative of a 501(c)(3), RIED is non-partisan. We do not lobby issues and do not endorse candidates or campaigns. All data is obtained from legislative, government and private sector sources. The material is not intended to be and does not constitute an endorsement of any kind or to be or represent an official source.

SESSION SUMMARY

This session, education reform became the central focus. At one point, there were three competing education packages--a house package, a senate package, and a governor package. A compromise was ultimately agreed to and enacted into law.

Negotiations over the education package were all-consuming for most of the legislative session, leaving room for little else to be considered. As a result, the Legislature missed opportunities to pass pro-economic growth measures like tax reform, which passed easily in the House but were never taken up by the Senate. Moreover, the Legislature left a transformational workforce development bill, SB 621, to the waning hours of the first regular session, nearly leaving this important item stalled, as well. Ultimately, the House passed SB 621 on a reconsideration vote on the last day of session. As workforce and talent pipeline issues have been consistently identified as the most important obstacles to Oklahoma's future economic growth, the scores reflect this near miss by the Legislature. No legislator voting against the bill in the first fourth-reading vote received a perfect score.

RIED scored no anti-growth bills this year due to those bills' failure to reach the final stages of legislative consideration. Top anti-growth issues included an elimination of food items from the sales tax base, numerous economic boycotts or environmental, social and governance related bills, PBM bills, and data privacy. All in all, pro-growth reform won out this year, even with opportunities left on the table.

12.5 POINTS

RIED supports sensible tax reform that encourages economic growth. Franchise taxes are, in essence, an excise tax to do business in a state. It is levied regardless of profit on a business' capital. The franchise tax penalizes businesses for making capital investments. Oklahoma is one of fourteen states with a franchise tax, while two others are phasing out the capital stock tax. Oklahoma's tax is $1.25 per $1,000 capped at $20,000.

HB 1039X discontinues the collection of the franchise tax. This would increase business investment in the state, generating economic growth. For these reasons, RIED rates HB 1039X as pro-growth.

10 POINTS

RIED supports streamlined regulation. Businesses flourish with consistency. But having too many regulators at the table can be detrimental. Childcare, for example, is regulated by the Oklahoma Department of Human Services. They have the expertise to be able to set efficient and safe rules for children in non-parental care. Allowing a local government to also set rules creates confusion and limits the space the childcare providers can offer.

HB 2452 removes the ability for local governments to regulate childcare home providers. This will not only make it easier for these childcare providers to operate but will also allow providers to open more slots for children, easing the childcare deserts in Oklahoma. For these reasons, RIED rates HB 2452 as pro-growth.

10 POINTS

RIED supports industry and workforce development. Oklahoma's film industry contributes millions of dollars into the economy including rural communities. As the film industry continues to grow in Oklahoma, targeted incentives are necessary to continue its development and make Oklahoma more competitive for landing productions.

HB 2459 expands included expenditures in production costs to include full-time higher education students, military, or those in a restorative workforce program, and increases the percentage of the expenditure amount considered for the incentive. For these reasons, RIED rates HB 2459 as pro-growth.

7.5 POINTS

RIED supports developing Oklahoma's future workforce. Studies show those with a bachelor's degree earn 84% more than those without. That's more money in the economy and a more qualified workforce. A barrier to entering secondary education is cost. Eligibility for Pell Grants and other federal and state financial aid is based on the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). According to the National College Attainment Network, Oklahoma left $64,019,243 in Pell Grants on the table in 2021. Pell Grants are federally funded grants to students with exceptional financial need and can be used in higher education or career and technology education. Pell Grants do not have to be repaid. In Oklahoma, only 35.3% of high school students filled out the FASFA, indicating either they were not attending post-secondary education or that they did not think they needed assistance.

SB 93 requires high school graduates to complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid. The FASFA shows students a possible grant, scholarship or loan for their future education, which could encourage an increase in post-secondary education. For these reasons, RIED rates SB 93 as pro-growth.

12.5 POINTS

RIED supports efforts that make a transformational impact on Oklahoma's workforce. Currently in Oklahoma, there are numerous entities with some hand in Oklahoma's workforce development. But there is no cross coordination of programs. There is no overarching plan for development for future needs. There is no single owner. The siloed thinking in workforce development creates a mismatch of goals, needs and economic growth. Ultimately leading to employers without people to fill the available jobs. Oklahoma businesses cannot grow without the necessary workforce, but Oklahoma has no plan to equip current and future Oklahoma workers with the skills needed for future success.

Oklahoma needs a future-looking workforce development commission that leverages various funding sources for programming. One that brings industry leaders to the table to help forecast what comes next in their industries and for the state's economic development. Senate Bill 621 does just that. It created the Oklahoma Workforce Commission consisting of private sector leaders with the power to create a coordinated workforce plan and disseminate funding for various programs that aligns with the plan. SB 621 does not create a new agency, it just coordinates functions across the government and collects data to better understand where efforts need to be focused. For these reasons, RIED rates SB 621 as pro-growth.

RIED supports strengthening critical industry's workforce. Career pathways align industry needs with educational goals. It allows industries to detail what skills and knowledge is needed for an industry job and through development with educational institutions, puts together an easy-to-understand plan for students or upskilling workers. Having a prepared workforce for jobs within a key Oklahoma industry strengthens Oklahoma's economic outlook.

SB 930 authorizes the Oklahoma Aeronautics Commission to create a career pathway in the aerospace industry with education and industry stakeholders. In doing so, the aerospace industry will continue to develop into a critical industry and foster economic growth. For these reasons, RIED rates SB 930 as pro-growth.
